

Calcutta Rescue

Calcutta Rescue's Handicrafts project started with an intention for patients to make clothes for other patients. From that small beginning, it developed into a more diverse undertaking and has now become a stand-alone project in its own right that is Fair Trade accredited and sells fair trade handicraft products around the world. The project still has a cooperative feel to it, with producers being former patients from CR clinics (e.g. cured leprosy and tuberculosis patients) and boys and girls who have dropped out of mainstream school, and produces clothes and school uniforms for other CR projects. Not only does the project produce high quality goods, it also trains and offers a decent livelihood to people whose employment opportunities are otherwise very limited. Recycled materials and silk produced in Malda, where CR works to eliminate arsenic from drinking water, also feature significantly in the Handicrafts project.

Please contact us with any questions and we will be happy to respond at the earliest opportunity. We will always try to accommodate individual requirements and preferences."
